"Дървото на желанията" - "The tree of desires"
 Дърво, дзифт, акрил, кристали, 2009 г., 21 x 19 см
 Wood, black resin, acrylic paint, crystals, 2009, 21 x 19 cm

Among the trees in my exhibition are two which I have invented. As I was rummaging through the old books, I found neither a legend, nor a myth which would point me in the direction of my intention. I offer my interpretations of these trees to your kind attention: the "tree of dreams" and the "tree of desire". After all, do we not all have dreams and desires? Someone might say – isn't this one the same thing? I believe it is not "one the same thing". Moreover, we may be able to achieve our desires, but our dreams must always stand in front of us, even when it is difficult for them to turn into desires.

Trees and Flowers in time

“Грозде” - “Grape Vine”

Дърво, акрил, кристали, 2006 г., 30 x 25 см
Wood, acrylic paint, crystals, 2006, 30 x 25 cm

„Цветето дава на човека забележителен пример за неподчинение, за смелост, за постоянство и находчивост. Ако можехме да сложим в преодоляването на неизбежната болка, старост и смърт половината от енергията, излъчвана от най-дребното цветенце в земната ни градина, съдбата ни положително щеше да е много по различна.”

Морис Метерлинк (1862 – 1949 г.): „Разумът на цветята”, белгийски поет, драматург, есейист. Носител на Нобелова награда – 1911 г.

“Смокinya” - “Ficus Carica”

Дърво, акрил, кристали, 2009 г., 20 x 15 см
Wood, acrylic paint, crystals, 2009, 20 x 15 cm

The flower provides one with a remarkable example for non-obedience, courage, persistence, ingenuity and inventiveness. If, in the process of overcoming the inevitable pain, old age and death, we could have utilized half of the energy emitted by even the smallest of flowers in our earthly garden, our fate will definitely have been different.”

Maurice Polydor Marie Bernard Maeterlinck (1862 – 1949): „The Intelligence of Flowers”, Belgian poet, playwright, essayist. Nobel Prize holder - 1911.

“Исон” - “Hyssopus Officinalis Lamiaceae”
